From the Desk of Editor.....

The Journal of Humanities and Social Science Research (JHSSR) is a peer-reviewed journal published in English. It is a multi-disciplinary publication dedicated to the scholarly study of all aspects of Humanities and Social Sciences. Particular attention is paid to Philosophy, History, Geography, Political Science, Public Administration, Human Rights, Rural Development, Economics, Commerce, Management, Education, Anthropology, Sociology, Social Work, Mass Communication, Law, Environment and Developmental issues, as well as ethical questions related to scientific and empirical research.

The Journal seeks to encourage comprehensive and critical study and research on the above subjects; to provide a forum for the study of Humanities and Social Sciences in the global context; to promote dissemination, exchange and discussion of research findings; and to encourage interaction among academics from various traditions of learning.

The main objective of the journal is to provide a platform to all social scientists including young scholars for exchange of ideas, interchange of opinions on the issues of the socio-economic, political, ethnocultural and historical problems of India and abroad.

It welcomes articles with rigorous reasoning supported by authentic documents. Papers based on empirical research will be given priority in publication.

It also encourages the inter-disciplinary studies that are accessible to a wider groups of social scientists, young scholars and the policy makers.

The journal will also provide ample scope to research notes, comments, book reviews in Humanities and Social Sciences.

Contributions to the volume poured in from different scholars and well wishers from North East India and abroad. While at the very outset no specific themes were decided upon for the prupose, papers prepared by the scholars according to their own choice covering major contemporary issues in the fields of Humanities and Social Sciences are published in this issue.
